

A Calm No Protects Your Goals

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Sometimes strength means calmly saying no to a tempting opportunity.

MLDP VALUE Editorial Team

What does it mean?

An offer can be tempting without being right for us. Saying no calmly lets us choose how to use our money and time. We build that strength by taking our own goals seriously.

Building wealth over time also depends on the purchases we turn down. A discount is no reason to buy something we do not need. Saying no to unnecessary purchases leaves money for our own goals.

Put it into practice

- 01 Choose an offer that is tempting you to buy something.
- 02 Write down what you need the money for instead.
- 03 Decline the offer if that other purpose matters more to you.

YOUR TASK FOR TODAY

Take five minutes to complete one sentence about a tempting offer: "I will pass on ... because I need the money for"

YOUR QUESTION

What could you say no to today to protect an important goal?
